

The Italian final event to present the project

CEIPES presented the project results and final deliverables on 10 October to the target group composed of teachers, experts in disability, family members and caregivers of people with disabilities. Besides, students of psychology were also present together with youth working in the field of youth education.

Dichotomy of sex education and disability were addressed as something new, since, as emerged also through the project need analysis, it is not common to have this kind of education in families, especially in family units in which there are kids with intellectual disabilities.

The promotion of the project had a good reception from the participants. They were interested in the deliverables and considered them innovative and necessary. They also shared their experiences and opinions, willing to know deeper the best strategies to put in practice sexual education.

It was a good opportunity for CEIPES to also receive feedback and advice for what to improve in the deliverables.
